Boston, Sept. 18, 1862.

Dear Johnson:

Enclosed, you will find a card photograph for yourself, and one for Filton. It is taken from the "negative" ~~you~~ sent me, and suits me much better than any that has yet been taken. I wish it could supersede every other. I wonder if the artist who took it has proffered it where such cards are sold in your city - i. e., the leading establishments. My endorsement of it ought to give it the preference to those who sell.

I should like to ascertain about what time you contemplate going to Vermont, as there is to be an Anti-Slavery Convention on the Cape next month, (time not yet settled,) at which I am to be present.

Tell Fanny she is a great "miss," though a young one, in the family.

Yours, always,

Wm. Lloyd Garrison.
